

A SHOWTIME DOCUMENTARY SERIES
FROM OSCAR NOMINATED MATTHEW HEINEMAN, DIRECTOR OF CARTEL LAND

THE TRADE

Episode 2

Monday, June 25, 2018, Noon - 2 p.m.

RAHN 8th Floor Auditorium

- Behind the opioid epidemic are real people with real stories. Showtime has recently released a new 5 part documentary series, The Trade, which sheds light on the opioid epidemic impacting families across the United States.
- The Trade beautifully and tragically portrays each part of the drug chain and puts a face on America's drug crisis. The compelling stories in the series can help both families deal with addiction, and prevent individuals from ever starting down that path.
- Get an up close look at the individuals, families, and law enforcement heavily affected by the opioid epidemic in The Trade.

This special free screening is open to all UAMS!

After the movie, a discussion will be led by Nick Zaller, Ph.D., associate professor, COPH Health Behavior and Health Education, and Joseph Bates, M.D., associate dean for public health practice, COPH.

UAMS

Fay W. Boozman
College of Public Health